

Monique Nelson

Monique serves as the Chief Operating Officer of Enough Is Enough, a non profit organization dedicated to “Making the Internet Safer for Children and families.” She was a member of the National Women's Leadership Task Force which gave birth to Enough Is Enough in 1990 and has served with EIE ever since.

Monique is a national lecturer, and frequent guest on local and national radio and television, appearing on such shows as, the Dan Rather Evening News, The Michael Reagan show, Fox news, MSNBC, The Warren Duffy radio show, etc. She has had the opportunity to speak to numerous civic clubs, educational and religious groups, as well as national and local government entities.

Over the years, she has developed local and national Enough Is Enough task forces, including the current CyberPartners initiative and our Internet safety education program for schools.

She has written and delivered material for national and local EIE training seminars, informing and equipping men and women to make a difference in their community.

Monique served as a California liaison to women in the 1988 election, and served as President of a Southern California Chapter of an International Women's organization for five years.

She was happily married for 37 years to her high school sweetheart who just recently passed away. She is the proud parent of three children and eight delightful grandchildren.
